

always in readiness to start at any moment by the middle of December. I considered in a condition, though the works were not yet entirely completed, to remove the bulk of the population from the islands to some other sphere of activity. I had the proper means of moving them, but I had not the proper means of receiving them. In regard to the above strictures upon the "graceful inactivity" in stopping to fortify the banks and to build wharves for boats and ports, &c., they strictly require no reply. As I had, however, been informed direction of Charleston the moment that the fall of Pulaski rendered the troops and means of transportation almost completely paralyzed. There was certainly no "confusion" in all this, and all that is unsatisfactory about it to me lies in the fact of the transportation I timely asked for, failing to reach me. Had that transportation arrived when it ought, Savannah would have been in our hands in January; the whole coast south would have fallen as a consequence; the whole railroad system of Georgia and Florida would have been under our control; the States of Georgia and Florida, as a part of the military chess-board, would have been more than neutralized; and the problem of Charleston would then have become as very simple as to demand but comparatively little care or labor.

As it is, the combined expedition, instead of being fruitless in results, accomplished far more than covered its original purpose. When the land force of the expedition was turned over to Gen. Hunter—the whole coast from St. Augustine to North Edisto was in our hands, and the opinion of one of our most eminent officers was true, viz.: "that in the possession of Fort Pulaski we hold all that is really valuable about Savannah"—then there was nothing left on the whole coast worthy of the expedition but Charleston and its dependencies. As to what has transpired since my departure, I can only say that I am thoroughly to remark upon, even if I were an enemy to do so.

It is with some hesitation that I venture to say a word on the subject of the proclamation to the colored men of South Carolina, issued in the article characterized as "stupid and silly." I still think of it. What may have been wise and expedient then may not be so now, but in the situation of affairs at that time, and at that stage of the war, I deem it all the thing, and not only so, but a thing that has issued, I but would certainly do the like again under the same circumstances—could they ever occur. And my confidence in its propriety was not weakened by the flustering enormities which the same issue has since been the cause of, and which passed upon it in November last. If it has changed in opinion, I have not changed mine.

Lost the New York editor may be deceived in regard to the views of Flag Officer DuPont, whom he speaks of as "tamely submitting to the will of the enemy." I am not sure that he is. I beg leave to append herewith a copy of a letter which that officer tendered to me on my leaving the expedition, giving some official views on the subject.

Your obedient servant,
T. W. SHERMAN,
Brigadier General Volunteers.

FLAG SHIP WARREN,
Port Royal, S. C., April 8, 1863.

GENERAL: I understand you are transferred to another military department, and are about to leave Port Royal.

It would be doing injustice to my feelings, and to our late intimate personal relations, were I to permit you to depart without expressing my high appreciation of the vigorous and harmonious cooperation with which you have ever been ready to assist in or lighten the heavy responsibilities of my own command.

Gen. Pope has written a very witty letter, in reply to the denial of Capt. Harrison of the 65th New York regiment that he had deserted his post. This is the same officer for whose apprehension a reward of five cents was offered. General Pope shows that Harrison left the army without his resignation being properly tendered or accepted, and that he is therefore a deserter in the eyes of the United States. And the General further says: "No resignation of an officer whatever will be accepted except upon medical certificate of the most conclusive character, or proof of worthlessness. It is therefore to be distinctly understood that any officer of this army whose resignation has been accepted without medical certificate has proved himself worthless in the eyes of the Government, and will not be tolerated in its ranks." With credit to himself, nor any sort of fair dealing toward the private soldier, any sort of volunteer officer tender his resignation. The soldier has agreed to go into the service of the United States, with the understanding that certain persons who persuaded him to enlist should continue to command him. If he had thought otherwise, there is no doubt that in many cases he would have declined to volunteer. When he has been sworn in he is bound for the whole term of service, and there should be no exemption, nor, so far as I can control this army, shall he be exempt from the same when he is discharged. In that respect, which has been imposed upon the private soldier.

A large part of the dissatisfaction justly felt by the private soldiers of the volunteer regiments has arisen from this very practice. As soon as a commissioned officer grows tired of the fatigue and hardship of service he tenders his resignation, and in many cases has found means to have it accepted. A private soldier has no such means of freeing himself from an obligation which he imposed upon himself with the full understanding, that the officer who persuaded him to volunteer was equally bound by himself, and would remain with him. The practice of abandoning the private soldier who have volunteered at their instance, reflects little credit upon officers, and will not be tolerated in this army when I can no longer control it.

PHYSICAL DISABILITY.—There are, naturally enough, many inquiries as to the nature of the physical infirmities which will exempt members of the enrolled militia from the draft, or obtain their release in case they are drafted. The surgeon General has recently, in a published order, stated who are subject to military duty, and his decision will doubtless guide the War Department in making up the new regulations. He says that physical disability should in all cases be established to the satisfaction of the enrolling officer by a physician's certificate, as well as the affidavit of the party himself. The following imperfections as proper causes of disability: "Wounds of the head which impair the faculties or cause convulsions; serious impairment of hearing, speech or vision; encephalitis, or active disease of any of the larger joints; the presence of pulmonary disease or organic disease of the heart; irreducible hernia; rupture in any large hernia; large and painful varicose or varicose veins which extend above the knee; the loss of a limb, or thumb and forefinger on the right hand, or of any two fingers on either hand; the loss of the great toe; any marked physical imperfections which would unfit for active service."

The Philadelphia North American says that within two weeks a large number of brass band plates, upon which was the word "brass band," have been removed from the doors of as many as a dozen houses in that city, to throw dust in the eyes of the Assessors, and prevent them from finding the necessary material for soldiers' uniforms. The removal of the plates, and substance of the table talk is made up of scoffing and reviling against the government and of deriding expressions against the Union army.

A letter from the gunboat Paul Jones, dated 26th ult., reports an assault on a rebel battery in the Ogeechee River, near Savannah, by the Paul Jones, Unadilla, Huron and Madeline. They shelled the work for two hours, inflicting serious damage and receiving none. The letter calls it a reconnoitering movement, probably preliminary to some important one.

Admiral Goldsborough and Fleet Captain Case have asked to be relieved from the command of the fleet. The admiral is Capt. Wilkes, who takes Goddard's place, and Capt. Porter, of the mortar flotilla, will be flag officer of the naval forces near Richmond.

It is represented that the number of rebel prisoners now in the hands of the Federal Government is twenty-five hundred, which is an aggregate that greatly exceeds the number of our men held by the Confederates.

Brig. Gen. Casey is in Washington. It is reported that he is to appear before the Army Retiring Board, now in session, to be placed on the retired list.

Every discourager of enlistment among us holds a military office: he is Aid to the Rebellion.—President.

THE COLORED MEN IN COUNCIL.—A goodly number of colored men met yesterday forenoon in the hall of the Colored People's Association, to consider the question of enrolling in the service of the United States. There was an exchange of feeling on the subject. The prevailing impression of the meeting seemed to be that it was no more than fair that a distinction should be made between the colored men of the north who volunteer as soldiers and the colored men of the South who are employed as laborers; and that, if colored volunteers of the north should be accepted as citizens and soldiers, in short, as men, probably nearly all the colored men in Rhode Island would volunteer who could. The meeting was troubled by a statement reported by a Tribune correspondent to have been made by the President, and copied in yesterday's morning's edition of the "Register," "would employ all colored men offered as laborers, but would not promise to make soldiers of them."

William J. Brown, John T. Waugh, and John A. Creighton were appointed a committee to wait on the Governor and make inquiries about these subjects, and the meeting was adjourned till this evening.—Free Jour.

The English people drink vast quantities of liquor. Last year the tax on spirits produced a revenue of more than one hundred millions of dollars. Licenses to sell liquor produced five million dollars. The tax on tea, coffee, chocolate, &c., produced thirty million dollars.

PRESERVE YOUR FRUIT.
LUDLOW'S PATENT GLASS JARS & GLASS COVERS FOR Preserving Fruits, Vegetables, &c., IN A PERFECTLY FRESH STATE.
THEY REQUIRE NO WAX, Sulder or Cement, seal instantly, and are more easily sealed and opened than any other Jar for the purpose ever invented. All kinds of Wax and Cement are equally disagreeable and uncertain in sealing.
In presenting these articles to the public, the inventor challenges the world in an intellible, Simple, Easy and Rapid process of Hermetical Sealing.
All scientific and practical men who have examined them say they are without fault, and are the only ones that have stood the chemical test.
The sealing is on an entirely original plan.—This principle has stood the test for several years, and the best certificate of its value is, that those who have tried these articles will use no other.
They are warranted as represented.
Reliable directions for putting up all kinds of Fruits, Vegetables, &c., will accompany the Cans and Jars. For sale by BROWN, GODDARD & BARLOW, July 26 122 Thames street.
